Recently I visited Seattle for the first time, as an end of the summer trip before heading back to college. With great weather, an awesome range of attractions and some of the world's coolest music festivals, to say I had great time is an understatement. Seattle is definitely one of those places that has something for everyone, whether you enjoy outdoor adventures or shopping. So here is my recommendations on the best places to visit in Seattle.

1. Seattle Center
Don't leave Seattle without going to the Seattle Center. Its home to the world famous Space Needle Observation Deck, where you can enjoy awesome views of downtown Seattle skyline and surrounding mountains. Also in the Space Needle is the rotating restaurant SkyCity, which has amazing Pacific Northwest cuisine. For kid friendly fun, the Pacific Science Center offers cool exhibits and informative educational programs.

2. EverGreen Escapes' day trip to Forks
If you're fan of the popular vampire series Twilight, then I definitely recommend you take EverGreen Escapes' day trips to Forks. Its the backdrop for the popular series and where you can see the sights and scenes from the movie. You can hike through the rainforest and even stop for dinner at restaurant that Edward and Bella had
